

Dear ladies and gentlemen,

On behalf of the Ministry of Construction, Housing and Communal Services of Uzbekistan, and in my personal capacity, I am pleased to welcome you to Tashkent for Aquatherm Tashkent 2025 — one of the country's most significant exhibitions of heating, ventilation, air conditioning, water supply, plumbing, swimming pools, as well as green technologies and renewable energy sources. Organised to an exceptionally high standard by Iteca Exhibitions International Company, this event has earned a reputation as a premier meeting place for many industry leaders.

It is a great honour for our country to host such a major gathering, which each year brings together the leading experts, innovators, and manufacturers from around the world.

Today, Uzbekistan stands at the threshold of a profound transformation in its construction sector. We are introducing modern standards with a strong focus on energy efficiency, sustainable development, and green technologies, striving to create a liveable and contemporary urban environment for our citizens.

Against the backdrop of large-scale construction and infrastructure modernisation, the adoption of advanced life-support systems, together with energy-efficient and environmentally friendly technologies, is a matter of utmost importance.

Aquatherm Tashkent 2025 exhibition stands as a key platform for showcasing the most advanced technologies and innovative solutions within one of the fastest-growing industries. It offers a unique opportunity to explore the latest developments, forge partnerships, and engage in discussions on the pressing challenges facing the sector today.

I am confident that Aquatherm Tashkent 2025 will serve as a catalyst for building valuable and mutually beneficial partnerships between domestic and international industry professionals, encouraging the exchange of expertise, and highlighting the most recent achievements in the construction industry. Most importantly, it will contribute to improving the quality of life for our citizens through implementation of these innovations.

I wish all participants a productive and rewarding experience, fruitful negotiations, and establishment of new promising partnerships. May the days of the exhibition inspire you and mark the beginning of bold and successful projects.

Sincerely yours,

D. Adilov,
Deputy Minister
